NORTH AFRICA COLLECTION (updated March 2012)

CHECK LIST. Please use columns on right to check items in and out. Return items to boxes you found them in.

North Africa is a region that covers 6 countries in Africa. These countries are linguistically, socially and economically similar but are separate countries.

		IN	OUT
Djellaba x3	A full length garment sometimes with hood – the most common dress for men 1 x Blue with embroidery; 1 x Grey/white stripes; 1 x Brown/White stripes with hood.
1 x Rug	Rug weaving of Night in the Desert
Sandals	In Northern Morocco traditionally worn with the backs down
Teapot and Tray	When you order tea in Morocco expect to wait for some time and be prepared for a very sweet concoction. Tea is added to the pot at the same time as the boiling water followed by lots of sugar and a sprig of mint. When bartering (for example with an artisan for a rug) it is usual to discuss the price over end less cups of this kind of tea
Glasses (Box of 5)	For drinking the tea made as above.
Brule Parfin made of brass	Incense burner found in many North African homes. The incense is sprinkled on hot charcoal placed in the globe. The tray is decorated with typical Islamic patterns (note they will not have representations of humans on them).
Tajine – 2 piece, patterned	Casserole dish (uniquely Moroccan) with a conical cover. Used to cook the spicy stew tajine and other meals such as couscous.
Tajine Dish and Burner, made of clay (available on special request)	Typical ochre coloured casserole dish and charcoal burner used by the Berbers in the Atlas mountains. Less elaborate than the decorated tajines common in the towns. Tajine is a spicy meat or fish stew.
Decorated pot	Small clay pot covered with leather. A decorated item sold widely to tourists.
8 x Books	Lonely Planet Guide to Morocco 'Five Things to Find' – a story from Tunisia 'The Bachelor and the Bean' – a Jewish Moroccan folk tale.
